WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1864.

COMPENSATION OF MAIL AGENTS.—Upon this subject we have a few words to say, which should surely be heeded at Washington. The compensation of mail agents is eight hundred dollars a year. This salary in past times sufficed to support those who exercised the strictest and closest economy, unless they had pretty large families, but certainly it does not suffice now. We know not what the cost of living may at the present time be in Washington, but here the price of all the necessities of life, food and clothing, have become absolutely enormous. It is unnecessary for us to go into specifications.

Very few functionaries in the country labor as incessantly as the mail agents. Their arduous business, for which only the most faithful men in the community are usually employed or should ever be, keeps them nearly the whole time away from their families and engages them day and night. They should be paid a living salary, and eight hundred dollars is not a living salary. We have heard of the families of agents that are actually suffering. Let the grievance be remedied by all means, and promptly.

KENTUCKY REPRESENTATIVES IN THE REBEL CONGRESS.—A convention of straggling Kentuckians at Dalton, Ga., met about a couple of weeks ago and nominated a ticket to represent Kentucky in the Richmond Congress. Subsequently, that is, on the 27th of January, a meeting announced as a meeting of Morgan's men, at Decatur, Ala., passed resolutions ignoring the Dalton convention, and nominated a ticket of their own, which, however, is said to have adopted one-half of the nominees of the Dalton concern. The nominees of the Morgan convention are as follows:

1st District.—W. B. MacKenzie; 2d District—John D. Morris; 3d District—J. C. Shurfit; 4th District—B. Beck; 5th District—H. W. Price; 6th Dist.—T. Barber; 7th Dist.—H. E. M. Bruce; 10th Dist.—J. T. Pickett; 9th Dist.—E. M. Bruce; 11th Dist.—J. W. Moore; 12th Dist.—T. B. Monroe; 12th Dist.—M. Elliott.

This is certainly about as broad and wretched a farce as ever was played even upon the rebel stage.

The rebels know that they have not the shadow of a pretext for pretending that Kentucky, by vote or conquest or other wise, has ever gone or been dragged into their Confederacy, and yet, a couple of years ago, a dozen or score of rebel refugees from their homes in this State met in a town of Southern Kentucky, under the auspices of Buckner's forces, and appointed representatives to the rebel Congress from all the districts of our State, appointing more than one from districts which the appointees had never visited and couldn't visit, and these appointees have, during the last two years, acted as regular members of Congress at Richmond, indifferently pretending to represent Kentucky, and acting a full part in all of the Congressional legislation for the South. The question naturally arises, how the South would become so humbled in her pride as to submit to such mockery, imposition, and hubub; but the truth is, the South, in going into the rebellion, left her pride and her self-respect behind her.

And now we have here another rebel Congressional ticket for Kentucky, nominated in a little town of Alabama by John Morgan's men. Probably it will be elected, and the men composing it, not one of whom would dare to enter the District for which he is nominated unless during one of Morgan's horse raids, will go to Richmond, and, like their predecessors, take part as pseudo representatives of Kentucky, in enacting laws for the whole South. Well, if the rebel Confederacy can stand it, certainly Kentucky can. If the rebels are willing, before the eyes of all the world, to be thus guiled, tricked, duped, cheated, dithered, it is their own business, and Kentucky will not make it hers unless she shall get her hand upon some of the impostors preceding to represent her, or upon those who nominated them.

The Earl of Warwick was called the King-maker, and John Morgan the Grand Rebel Equerry, or Master of Horse, aspired to be Congress-maker.

Noticing the other day a perversion in the Frankfort correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette, and a correction of the perversion in our own Frankfort correspondence, we grieve.

In a recent issue of the Cincinnati Gazette it is said that Mr. McHenry's explanation of what he said, which is simply that he would support no man for office who is crying continually: "If the nigger stands between me and my government, the nigger must go," is not true. The author of the article involves a tacit admission that there is an incompatibility between the existence of slavery and the existence of the government, which lies at the bottom of his opposition to the actual advances of radicalism. In other words, the Senator holds that a man who indulges in this sort of cant, whatever his profession may be, is a radical at heart and in effect.

Upon this the Cincinnati Gazette itself makes the following comment:

"Now suppose we concede the Journal's voracity to be correct, what does it prove? Suppose our correspondent is right, the bill has got up to a division, and that it is a division that can't be seen. If a man finds the 'nigger' standing between him and his government, and is not willing that the 'nigger' should be cut out of the way, then he clearly prefers the 'nigger' to the government."

But this is not the case of Senator McHenry. It is nothing like his case. He does not find the 'nigger' standing between him and his government; and he objects to those who employ the term, not because they show thereby that he himself now is in want; but his home is broken up, and he has lost all but his manly worth, and he asks merely the pay of a private for a year, although he had been commissioned as a Lieutenant, and as Speaker of the Senate, for an election in the Seventeenth Senatorial District, to supply the vacancy created by the death of Judge M. P. Buster. The district comprises the counties of Pulaski, Wayne, and Clinton, and the election is fixed for Monday, February 8th.

We had no hop last night, but there was some delightful singing in the ladies' parlor. There will be a hop on Thursday evening, which it is supposed will be the chief brilliant in the season's crown. If any Louisville ladies care to enter the tournament of beauty that is to be held on Friday evening, let them come on, and I will show fair play."

THE SURRENDER OF SCOTTSVILLE—GALLANT AND DESERRENT RESISTANCE—REBEL OUTRAGES—THE TOWN PLUNDERED AND FIRED BY THE GUERRILLAS—PARTICULARS OF THE RAID.

We learn by private letter from Scottsville, under date of the 30th ult., the particulars of the late raid on that place.

Captain J. D. Gillum, with his company of the 32d Kentucky, was stationed at that point to defend a section of country covering an area of some seventy-five miles, and this, too, in a portion of the State which offers every advantage for the successful entrance of guerrilla bands.

The guerrillas, numbering between four and five hundred, under command of the rebel Colonels Hughes, Hamilton, and Dority, made the attack on the night of the 27th ult., yelling like so many hounds loose from pandemonium. They do not anticipate an easy victory, but in this they were sorely disappointed, for Captain Gillum met them with a desperate and bloody resistance. The Captain gathered his little force in the Courthouse, and fought them bravely for upwards of an hour, when his ammunition gave out, and he found that they had fired the town at different points.

Under these circumstances, Captain Gillum capitulated with the rebel Colonel Hughes, who solemnly agreed that the property of citizens should be respected, and that they would be no departure on their part from the rules of civilized warfare during their occupation of the town. They no sooner got possession of the place, however, than the usual pillaging and robbery of stores and residences commenced, and everything that they could lay their hands upon was appropriated. Not satisfied with these outrages, in violation of their pledge, the clerk's office was broken into and the public documents mutilated and destroyed, after which they fired the building, together with the court-house. By the almost superhuman exertions of the citizens, however, the flames were extinguished, and a portion of the buildings and records saved.

They broke open the jail, and released two of their gang who were under indictment for murder. The amount stolen from the citizens will reach $30,000. They seemed to be possessed of a devilish disposition to mutilate and destroy everything that they could not carry off with them, and the damages inflicted will be sorely felt by the citizens of Scottsville. They made a desperate attempt to burn the jail, but were thwarted in their hellish design by the united efforts of our soldiers and the citizens.

Scottsville has been pillaged several times by guerrillas, and the county robbers of most of the valuable property it contained before the war. We are not a little surprised that such an important point should be so exposed to the ravages of guerrillas. The people of that place have time and again appealed to our authorities for adequate protection, but all to no purpose. The supply of ammunition was even scanty, and that of itself would have forced a surrender. We hope that the appeals of the sufferers from this raid will not be made in vain hereafter. A force of 500 men should be stationed at Scottsville immediately.

GUTHRIE OUTRAGES IN OWEN COUNTY—BURNING AT WORK AGAIN.—The gang who lately broke open the jail in Owen county, and released one of Morgan's men a few weeks ago, have been robbing through the night of the 2d, at the Fair of the Utica Agricultural Society.

Two weeks ago this party robbed a gun-shop at Clattanooga to Knoxville until the railroad is completed. There are no accommodations for travellers at Chatanooga, and the boats going to London are used exclusively for army supplies.

The projected railroad between New Albany and Jeffersonville is meeting with great favor, and we are gratified to learn that our neighbors are alive to the advantages that would be derived from such communication between the two places. We hope the work will proceed at once, for it is a want that has long been sorely felt by our neighbors.

Forty-three deserters were sent to Nashville yesterday, two to Cairo, and one to Henderson, all in iron and strongly guarded.

A quantity of arms and ammunition were concealed, they were opened upon with a terrible volley of musketry at short range, and it was almost miraculous that they succeeded in making their escape. Being mounted on good horses, however, they soon put themselves out of range of the fire of these fiends in human shape.

We are credibly informed that there are two bands of guerrillas infesting that portion of the State. One of the gangs is under the notorious Mose Webster, and they are stealing a great number of horses from the farmers in that section. These villains are carrying on a regular guerrilla warfare, and Union men are afraid to travel in the country. A citizen of Owen county informs us that they are fated and harbored by rebel sympathizers, who give them every encouragement at their command, and extend to them the hospitalities of their houses.

We hope the military authorities will attend to these rebels and their abettors as soon as possible, for the citizens of Owen and adjoining counties are living in terror of the murderous scoundrels. Gov. Brantlett's proclamation relating to those who give aid and comfort to guerrillas would be equal to an army with banners in that portion of the State, and we trust that no time will be lost in applying it rigidly to those rebel sympathizers who are thirsting for the blood and property of their Union neighbors.

"It seems," says Professor Wilson, "the easiest of all things to be kind and good, and then it is so pleasant!" This sentence embodies a reflection specially applicable at this time, when so many opportunities are afforded us all to enforce by what we know to be in truth right and proper. A fair is being carried on at Masonic Temple for the purpose of making additions to the St. Thomas Orphan Asylum, whereby some, at least, of the many orphan boys of our city may be rescued from vice and misery. Would the reader experience the pleasantness of being kind and good let him go to the fair to-night, and learn how little is required to give pleasure, as well to himself as others.

OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENT CONVENTION. The Board of Trade last night called a convention, to consist of not exceeding three delegates from each of the cities and towns in the West interested in the improvement of the Ohio river, to meet here on the 24th inst., to consider the subject. This, we understand, was the result of correspondence with the Board of Trade. We trust that every city in the Ohio Valley, and every town big enough to have a Mayor and Council, or Board of Trade, will be represented. The best plans should be considered and the matter wisely prepared to go before Congress.

COURT OF INQUIRY.—The Court of Inquiry to examine into the military conduct of Gens. McCook, Crittenden, and Negley convened at the Customs-house, this city on Monday.

The issue between Gen. Rosecrans and Wadsworth will also be investigated by this body. We regret that the publication of the proceedings during the session has been interdicted. The Court, however, sit open doors, and the public are admitted. We will give the result of their deliberations at the earliest opportunity.

We are gratified to learn that the gallant Mahoney has been appointed to the Majority of the 30th Kentucky volunteers now rapidly filling up. No better appointment could have been made, for none are more deserving. The highest encomiums on his courage and conduct have been paid by his former commanding officers, and on many fields his bravery has rendered him conspicuous. We congratulate the 30th on this deserved promotion.

COUNTY COMMITTEE ON THE REMOVAL OF THE CAPITAL.—We are authorized to say that a meeting of the members of this committee will be held at Walker's Exchange on Thursday next, at 10 o'clock A.M.

The theatres were both crowded last night, and excellent bills are offered to-night. They will be found under the head of amusements.

ITEMS.—The gallant 31st Kentucky arrived in the city last evening. They will be paid off before leaving our city, we are informed. General Thomas and Schofield left for the front yesterday.

The 4th Ohio, numbering two hundred and thirty-five men, arrived here yesterday en route home.

The weather was very disagreeable yesterday. Rain and snow struggled for mastery throughout the afternoon, and toward night it might justly be considered a drawn battle. The streets are in no wise improving, and pedestrianism would be at a discount were it not for the excitement created by Gen. Tom Thumb and his suite.

The 19th Ohio unfurled their banners yesterday, and started for the loved ones at home. We hope they will meet with a warm and cordial greeting when they arrive.

The 4th Ohio cavalry arrived on Monday night, and expect to be paid off before leaving for their homes.

The 18th Kentucky left for Lexington yesterday to bask in the sunshine of the smiles and greetings of the girls they left behind them for a few weeks, when they will return with renewed vigor to battle for the old flag. Hugh Ady, a deserter from the 10th Kentucky, was arrested in the city yesterday.

A negro, who had singly ensconced himself in a seat with several white ladies at the Louisville Theatre last night before last, was very unmercifully ejected by the Provost Guard, who confined him over night, and started with him to the Mayor's office yesterday morning to deliver him to the police. On the way, the negro attempted to escape, and only abandoned the idea after six shots had been fired at him, all of which passed in unbroken proximity to his head.

Five men from the Military Prison were released before the Court-martial now in session, to try for various offences, chief of which is desertion.

Twelve deserters were brought down from Cincinnati yesterday, and confined in the Military Prison at this place.

It is reported that a great many contraband negroes escape to Indiana almost nightly in small boats. The Contraband Commission are collecting large numbers daily, and they are forwarded at once to the Government railroad works.

Major-General Grant will remain in our city several days before leaving for the front. Recruiting has taken a new start, and the demobilized ranks are rapidly filling up.

Refugees from East Tennessee are daily arriving in Nashville. The principal cause of their leaving their beautiful section of the country is the scarcity of provisions. The country has been pretty well swept by the contending armies, of supplies.

Our army has crossed the Tennessee near Larkinsville.

There is no truth in the report of a recent fight at Knoxville. The latest fight at that place was that of Gen. Steggs, the particulars of which were published a few days since.

The train due at New Albany on Monday evening was delayed until last night by the cars running off at Salem. No serious injuries resulted from the accident. The trains on this road are running with great precision, and the management is excellent.

By order of General Thomas, transportation for passengers will not be furnished from Clattanooga to Knoxville until the railroad is completed. There are no accommodations for travellers at Chatanooga, and the boats going to London are used exclusively for army supplies.

The projected railroad between New Albany and Jeffersonville is meeting with great favor, and we are gratified to learn that our neighbors are alive to the advantages that would be derived from such communication between the two places. LARGE SALE OF TOBACCO.—Messrs. Spratt & Co., yesterday, one hundred and twelve hogsheads of tobacco. Among them were three hogsheads of the new crop, which brought $45, $28, and $23, and were grown by Dr. M. A. Stule, of Tricity County.
